SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photos 1 14 and 1 15 are of a letter to Vladimir written by Isabelita in Caracas, November 26, 1938. In the letter she tells how her father accidentally shot himself and later died from the wounds. She recounts the accompanying events. She speaks of the exorbitant amount demanded by the doctor who attended her father, and stated that this advantage taken by the bourgeoisie class would make anyone a communist.

Address: Vladimir Serge

1 Place Severin

TRANSLATION FROM THE FRENCH

Photos 1 21 through 1 24 are of a letter written probably to Vladimir by Isabelita and dated Caracas, June 27, 1938. It is entirely personal and recounts, in a very faulty French greatly influenced by the Spanish, little details of her daily life. She speaks of the possibility of their going to New York together.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH AND RUSSIAN

Photos 31 and 32 show one card in French, one in Russian and a letter in French. The card in French was written by a certain Renee and addressed to Mme. L. Sepurue (?), Hotel St. Pierre et Rome, Cours St. Louis, Marseille. It is personal in nature.

The card in Russian, dated November 5, is addressed to Vladimir and signed V. It is personal in nature and speaks, among other things, of a trip V. is making.

The letter, written in Oran, 2/28/41, is one addressed to Vladi by a man whose name is possibly Maurice (?). This letter is personal in nature and discusses the unhappy turn which an amorous affair between Vladi and a certain Dina is taking.

TRANSLATION FROM THE FRENCH

Photos 1 47 and 1 48 are of a letter from Maurice to Vladi written in Oran, January 24, 1941. The writer expresses his boredom and states that the business affairs are not going as well as might be wished. Names mentioned in the letter are: Victor, Andre, Jacqueline, Denis (?), Dina, Francine (?), Isabelita, Ignacio, Juan and his wife (the latter two were interned in a camp near Toulouse), Will (?). He mentions Victor's book with a prologue by Julian. All the above persons were mentioned in the casual manner of a friendly letter.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photos 1 729 shows a variety of small documents. The three at the top of the page are probably notes made preparatory to writing an article or a speech. The heading is "Bolshevism and socialistic morality." The lower left corner shows a note from Victor Serge to the Editors of the Bulletin of the Opposition (Bulletin de l'Opposition), dated March 23, 1939 and requesting that they publish his reply to a letter of Trotsky. On a small card in the same corner is a quotation from some author: "We must find men who devote not their spare moments, but their whole life to the revolution." The card of Leon TROTSKY is seen in the lower left hand corner.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photo 2 262 is of a letter from Victor Serge beginning with "dear friends" and written in Marseille, Sept. 27, 1940. He states that Mr. Frey received a telegram from the Emergency Rescue Committee which was not clear but indicated that a decisive period had been reached in the quest for visas. He writes that a certain Elsa is also trying to arrange for visas. He mentions that it might be well for Mr. Alfred Bingham to write his brother to get him to use his influence. He speaks of a Mr. Bohn who has lists of people to aid and on whose list the writer has not been able to have his name included. He adds that he is receiving a small amount of financial assistance from the Emergency Rescue Committee. He states that $25.00 sent through the American Express at Nice to Fanlac, Dordogne, did not arrive. A friend, Julian, in Mexico is reported to have agreed to obtain Mexican visas. He mentions that Andre Breton is another person who deserves to be helped by the ERC.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photo 2 263 is of a letter by Victor Serge to "my dear Friend" written in Marseille, September 26, 1940. First he asks the addressee to obtain American visas as soon as possible. He complains that due to his late arrival in Marseille and due to the fact that he is the member of no group, he has been unable to receive the assistance that other refugees had received. He speaks of his WORLD PORTRAIT OF ... being published, and of the death of the OLD MAN (probably Trotsky). He speaks of aid received from friends in New York. He states that he has two books almost ready for publication, a novel and a book of memoirs.

He again mentions the case of Modigliani whom the addressee is to aid through Prieto. The final paragraph speaks of work for the future, of a long range intellectual endeavor. He approves the work of the Association of Authors and Editors. He has just received a letter from Gide. He mentions J. G. whose books continue to enjoy a wide circulation, and who had invited the writer to spend some time in his home.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photos 2 254 and 2 255 present two copies of two letters. The first begins simply "dear friends" and was written on August 22, 1940, in Marseille where the writers address was c/o Mrs. Sosnovski, 123 rue Horace Bertin, Marseille. He asks for more details on the assassination in Mexico. He says that his situation is becoming worse daily.

The second letter was written to Isabélita on August 21, 1941 from the same address. He mentions a person named Molins and again regrets the death of L. D. He mentions that he had asked her to obtain Mexican visas for Vladi, his sister and himself, which would be useful for them even in going to the United States. He reports having put in a formal application in Marseille and also for help for some friends whose names are not mentioned. The final sentence is: "If we do not find a great deal of solidarity in America amid this world crisis, many of us are lost--and we shall no longer be alive when there is need of us."

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

The photo 2 256 presents an unsigned letter beginning "dear friends" and written in Marseille, August 26, 1940. (The author is most probably Victor Serge). He first speaks of the death of L. D. (Leon Trotsky) which he believes to be the work of the agents of Soviet Russia. He asks for more details. He states that he received a letter from Julian Gomez-Gorkin saying that he could obtain Mexican visas. The author prefers to go to the United States. He asks that his condolences be conveyed to Nathalie Ivanovna. He speaks of Krivitsky.

Photo 2 253 is of an unsigned letter beginning "my dear friend" and written September 12, 1940 from the following address: c/o Mme. Sosnovski, 123 rue Horace Berzin, Marseille. The writer states that he had asked the addressee to arrange Mexican visas for him, his family and Laura Sejourne. These visas would be useful although he really intended to go to the United States. He asks definite information on L. T. (Leon Trotsky) and asks that his sympathy be conveyed to Nathalie Ivanovna. He also asks that the addressee and a certain Prieto aid Modigliani, refugee from Italy and anti-fascist, to get to United States. He mentions that Juan has probably been interned.

SUMMARY FROM THE FRENCH

Photo 2 50 is of an unsigned letter dated September 20, 1940.

The name of the addressee is not given. The first paragraph speaks of money received through the American Express. The second, of a Jewish Assistance Committee to which a certain EASTMAN had written about him (the Committee had ceased to function because of lack of funds). The third, of the steps taken for obtaining visas, of a certain Doubinsky who might give valuable assistance, and of a more or less sure way of leaving and crossing Spain. The fourth paragraph speaks of the difficulties of getting the necessities of life, even with money; of the moral decomposition of certain groups; of the "catastrophe" in Mexico which it is hoped would unite the comrades. The final paragraphs mention that no information relative to the visas had been received from Mr. Frey and also speaks of the writer's work on two books.

SUMMARIZED FROM THE SPANISH

Item: 1 11

This item is a personal letter, dated April 30, 1939, from "Isabelita", in Caracas to "Vladi". Isabelita states that she has to work long hours as she is the Secretary to the Minister. When she gets home she is very tired, hence she has not been able to write. She lives with one "Murita" and enjoys the company of one "Isaias Medina" who, although he thinks absolutely differently from Isabelita, is "a fine person... who has done much to improve the condition of the working classes".

The writer is now reading a book by Nell Doff: "Historia triste de una mujer alegre" (The sad story of a happy woman). When she finishes, she will send it to Vladi. She would be pleased to have Vladi send her books. She is also interested in paintings and wishes that Vladi would advise her as to the price of any good ones he sees. She is delighted with the picture of Janine which Vladi sent her.

She is thinking of going to Paris around the end of July or the first of August. Her mother and Murita will probably accompany her.

Items: 1 12, 1 13

Type of document: personal letter dated November 20, 1938, sent from Caracas.

From: Isabelita

To: Vladimir

Contents: The writer was pleased to receive two letters from Vladimir on the seventeenth (?) of the month and three more on the nineteenth.

On November 19, she received a letter from Henri Bruchet; he stated that, after he had stopped to see her, he left for Spain where he stayed for ten months. After August 18, 1938, he was imprisoned at the Sante in Paris for plotting against the State. He hopes to be released around the first of December. He further states that on reaching Paris he saw Emilio. Isabelita requests Vladimir to check this last statement with Emilio.

Isabelita wishes to know if Majo, who will be her companion, is coming on the twenty-third of the month.

Isabelita is reading George Land's book, "Le Derniere Amour" (The Last Love).

When Majo comes, the writer has planned a walk, perhaps as far as the Orinoco River, in the company of General Isaias Medina, the Minister of War and the Navy.

Isabelita professes her love for Vladimir. She further wants to help Bruchet and requests information for sending money to him.

Contents: Isabelita wishes that Vladay were with her so that she could tell him all the things that have been going on.

Her mother and Murita are going to Paris. They are sailing on the "Caribia" on June 11 and will arrive there on June 23. She wishes that Vladay would agree with Emilio and meet her mother and Murita at Cherbourg when the boat docks. She wishes that Vladay would paint a picture of Murita while she is there. Bruchat went to Paris again.

To: Vladí Seré, c/o Eugenio Grandell, 2, Avenida Independencia, 2, Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic

From: Isabelita Murta (?), 130 W. 57th Street, New York City

Contents: I went to the Cuban Consulate to find out what was being done about the visa for you both, and they told me that $500 was needed for the transit visa. However, if you both agree to remain in the airport or in the plane during the time that the plane is passing through Cuba, a visa is not necessary. The Air Line only demands a visa for Mexico.

I am thinking of leaving on the tenth of this month. I have everything all arranged, visa, etc. Murita is in Caracas but is leaving this month for Mexico. I believe that she will arrive at the same time that I will. I am sure that you will like her.

The "Molins" affair is going rather badly - 1st. he has a visa which is valid for Venezuela - 2nd. I have requested a permit from the French Embassy in Washington so that he could embark at Casablanca; they definitely promised it to me. But he has to pass through Portugal, and they won't let him. There are no direct boats now. I don't know what to do. I'm crazy about seeing you both. Today I bought clothes for V.S. It is worth while living when there are men like V.S.

- Articles: (1) The Price of Bread - In time of war, all must make sacrifices. It is not fair, therefore, to raise the price of bread to such a height that the common people cannot afford it.
- (2) The International Scene: Tokio, Jan. 27 - The political crisis which came about as the result of the resignation of the Hirota Government threatens to turn into a real revolution. In spite of the intervention of the Vice-Minister of War, General Umozu, the army continues to remain decided not to permit a general in the regular army to accept a post with the new ministry.

In this article, written on January 2, 1937, Victor Serge discusses various types of power. He states that in a period of social crisis there are two main types of power: a very strong power to defend the privileges of the rich classes against the workers or a very strong power for the support of the masses. The former tends to be detrimental to the farmers and the workers and to destroy revolutionary organizations; the latter tends to strengthen the energy of the masses.

Article: EVERYTHING REPEATS ITSELF

Nineteen years apart, in two such different countries as Russia and Spain, the same causes produce the same effects. During July and August of 1917, in Russia, the parties that were interested in or deluded by bourgeois democracy had no answer for the Bolsheviks whose watchwords were in accordance with reality: peace among the people without annexations or contributions, workers' control of production, land for the farmers, power for the workers' Councils. Not having an answer, therefore, they used their most perfidious weapon - slander! And it is slander which they are now using against you comrades of the P.O.U.M.² and the C.N.T.

After the events of July, 1917, Lenin and Zinoviev had to hide in a small cottage on the coast of Finland. Trotsky let himself be arrested in order to answer to the action of the party. (You understand that the two leaders of the revolution ought not to put themselves in danger at the same time.) Then slander entered the picture. They were called agents who had sold out to Germany. Every press in the world denounced the Bolsheviks. And in the Iberian revolution today, the P.O.U.M. finds itself in the same position in which the Bolsheviks were in 1917.

However we shall defend the interests of the Soviet workers and those of the workers of Spain. We shall also struggle for socialism throughout the world, including the U.S.S.R.

These documents form an article entitled "Against Slander"; it was written by Victor Serge and dated January 1, 1937. In it, Serge tells the comrades of the P.O.U.M. and the C.N.T. that they must combat the slander of their enemies by truth. True facts, dates, ideas and history are the most effective methods for dealing with slander.

VICTOR SERGE

Victor Serge (Victor Lvovitch Kibaltchich), born at Brussels on December 30, 1890, of parents who were Russian revolutionary emigres. Father was an officer, then a doctor, sympathizing with the "Will of the People" Party. One of his relatives, a chemist of this party, was hung in 1881 after the execution of Czar Alexander II.

Youth spent in Belgium and in England. A younger brother died of want. At 15, a photographer's apprentice at Brussels. Later, a photographer, cartoonist, clerk, printer after having learned the trade in anarchist printing plants, journalist, translator... At 15, member of the Young Socialist Guard of Ixelles, then a member of the Revolutionary Group of Brussels. Contributor to "Temps Nouveaux", "Libertaire" and "Guerre Social". Demonstrations and trials. Spent time in the mining villages in northern France. Militant activity in Paris. Writer for "l'Anarchie" in 1910, at the time of unlawful activity, arrested and summoned to name the individuals involved, some of whom were shot, others died on the guillotine. He was indicted by virtue of the wicked laws and condemned to five years of solitary confinement with hard labor. Released in 1917. Printer at Barcelona, member of the C.N.T., contributor to "Tierra y Libertad", a participant in the first revolutionary attempt of July, 1917. Left for Russia; arrested at Paris, interned in a concentration camp under the Clemenceau ministry, exchanged in January, 1917, as a Bolshevik hostage, for an officer of the French Military Mission held in Russia. Arrived in Petrograd, member of the Russian Communist Party, collaborator of Zinoviev on the Executive Committee of the Communist International during the civil war. Fusilier of a special battalion, associate of the General Staff of the defense, superintendent of the files of the secret police, under the orders of Krassine, in 1919, First Congress of the Third International. Writer for the "Communist International". Spent long time in Germany (during the revolutionary preparation of 1923) and in Austria. Oppositionist since 1923. Returned to Moscow in 1925, literary works and strife in the party. Excluded and imprisoned in 1928. Imprisoned and deported to Orenbourg in 1933. Banished from Russia, his Soviet nationality taken away without legal motives in 1936.

To be published: "Fate of a Revolution" (Grasset)

FROM LENIN TO STALIN

The testimony of travelers who return from Moscow is usually made doubtful because of the most varying reasons: one does not know the Russian language, another has not been able in a few weeks to measure a new world in its first stages of development, another was convinced beforehand. A remarkable document like the treatise of Yvon on salaries in Russia is the victim of the conspiracy of silence. Was not the last pilgrim, returning from the U.S.S.R., accused of having criticized Soviet projects with the view of a small French bourgeois? And did not Stalin's press, in Moscow and Paris, after having pretended to be ignorant of the work of Gide, cover with insults the man whom, a few weeks before, it had saluted as the greatest and most sincere of French writers?

The dramatic account which "Crapouillot" publishes today is not the work of a foreign traveler; Victor Serge is Russian by birth and has just spent eighteen years in the country of the Soviets. He has been the friend or associate of the founders of the regime - Lenin, Zinoviev, Trotsky. After having occupied important posts, he experienced imprisonment and deportation when he believed the revolution "betrayed" and voiced his indignation. But in the midst of worse trials, Victor Serge has kept his revolutionary faith intact, and it is this fact which gives so much value to his indictment.

In "Crapouillot", we do not think it useful to perpetuate certain mirages; we are remaining faithful to the famous apostrophe of Peguy, "He who does not shout the truth when he knows the truth becomes the accomplice of liars and falsifiers!" And we agree with Gide when he says, "The lie, even though it may be that of silence, may appear timely and timelv (too) perseverance in the lie, but it plays too much into the hands of the enemy, and truth, even though it may be painful, only wounds in order to cure."

THE CRITICAL SPIRIT IN THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

by Victor Serge

The amplitude of my subject imposes upon me the need for the suppression of developments, the use of a certain diagrammatic style and for proceeding often, if not by proof, at least by the simple declaration of facts. I pray that the comrades will not hold a grudge against me.

I. For us there is no such thing as a non-incarnate spirit. The functions of the intelligence could not be detached from the social life. So we are led to consider the history of Russian society in order to find the beginning and growth of the critical spirit.

It has been in the last fifty years that the Russian intelligensia has been formed, i.e. a class of progressive intellectuals who have been called upon to play a very important role in the social transformation.

Let us recall some dates:

1861 - the abolition of serfdom. In this respect, Russia was seventy years behind France from a strictly chronological point of view - in reality it was more than a century.

S.N.6.

Dear Mr. Minister and Colleague:

My predecessor had the honor of informing you on June 13, 1936, that Mr. KILBATCHICHE, called "Victor Serge", an expelled Russian subject, living at 8, rue Cesar Franck, Paris (XV), and in whose favor you intervened with my Department, had been granted authorization to remain for a period of six months.

In this connection, I hasten to advise you that the expulsion decree which had been issued against Mr. KILBATCHICHE has just been revoked.

Please accept, Mr. Minister and Colleague, the assurance of my high esteem.

Madame:

You have been kind enough to call my attention to Mr. Victor KIBALTCHE, born at Brussels (Belgium) on December 30, 1890, who, believing that he is not authorized to remain in France, requests the clarification of his position.

I hasten to inform you that the expulsion decree of May 29, 1916, issued against Mr. KIBALTCHE, was revoked on January 23, 1937.

Consequently, he has no need for worrying about the conditions of his staying in France as they are absolutely in order.

However, Mrs. KIBALTCHE, his wife, and his son, Vladimir, entered France last April with visas which were limited to six months.

These visas having expired, it is probable that Mr. KIBALTCHE will now request their renewal.

Dear Sir:

We have the pleasure of informing you that our office in Lisbon has just wired us that the tickets from Lisbon to New York for Victor and Vladimir KIBALTCHICHE have been paid for in full.

We are in touch with these people and are now trying to reserve places for them on one of our boats. We should be very grateful to you if you will grant them a transit visa for Portugal.

Sincerely,

Thos and Geo Budd

January 29, 1941

Dear Friends:

(Summary: The writer states that he hasn't been able to see Mr. Bingham, as yet, who had more or less promised him the transit visa. Meanwhile an official received him at the American Consulate and said he would first have to get a French pass, because the one the Mexican officials gave him doesn't mean much to them and that it would be necessary for the American Embassy in Mexico to make sure of the authenticity of his visas. He said they would then ask him to show proof of the fact that his passage from New York to Mexico was paid for. He says he has a mind to go direct to Mexico from Lisbon. In New York the sum sent to the American Export Line would have to be transferred to the line which is granting passage to Mexico, and a certificate of payment must be sent to him, because this is necessary to obtain a Portuguese visa. By going directly to Mexico, he would have very little chance of getting a Spanish visa, for Spain and Mexico do not have any diplomatic connections. At present everything is held up because of the impossibility of obtaining from the American Consulate anything more than a formal reply equivalent to a refusal.)

January 30, 1941

(Summary: The personnel of the consulate seems to be predisposed against him, because he has not yet obtained a "special visa." However, he feels that everything will clear itself up soon and he is going to inform them by wire of the outcome. He says he is also trying to get a way to get from Marseille to Lisbon without troubling his friends. He says that Breton has finally received his American visa. He states that he is at present reading Sidney Hook's book. He is enclosing two recent photos.)

Dear Friends,

(Summary: They state that they received the letter of December 25 yesterday. Departure is not as easy as one would think. The writer says that Mr. Bing, thought that the recommendation from the State Department was not sufficient in his case and telegraphed the State Department several days ago for more definite information. Mr. F. telegraphed to the Emergency Rescue Committee for their support. The writer says he cabled his friends in regard to this on February 1st as follows: "Support if possible." He has been promised a reply in regard to his French pass and the departure visa about February 15. If he had the American transit visa now, he would no longer have to ask for the one from Lisbon which can be gotten in a week and the one from Madrid which you get in three weeks if at all. Otherwise he would have to apply for a Moroccan visa in order to go via Casablanca. After that places have to be reserved on the boat. All this means that at the earliest it would be about March 15 before he could depart.

For Laura a "moral affidavit" would be necessary also, and one never can tell what the people at the consulate are going to do to slow up or refuse the visa, even though the Italian quota is open.)

February 6

(Summary: He says he has been called to Mr. Bing.'s office tomorrow and thinks the transit visa is certain. He says he will probably give up crossing Spain and will try to go via Morocco.)

Dear Friends:

(Summary: The writer says that he received their letter of January 21 and the $50. He says three days ago he cabled them twice and has cabled once today. The details with regard to his departure are as follows:

The American consulate is waiting for a decision from Washington with regard to his transit. Meanwhile he can do nothing. In order to leave directly for Mexico, the difficulties are tremendous. Since Spain does not have diplomatic relations with that country, it refuses a transit visa to those who request one to go there. There remains the Marseille-Casablanca-Lisbon route, but Morocco is giving scarcely anyone visas or else is making them wait indefinitely. There is still one possibility: Martinique, San Domingo, Mexico, but this requires a visa from the Colonial ministry, and this is very difficult to get. He has applied for two visas, for Morocco and Antilles, and he is going to try to get sufficient backing for these. In any case you have to go via Lisbon. Through the NICEM agency (connected with the HIAS - Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society) you can easily get the Portuguese visa when your passage has been paid, but he has done so for New York and not for Mexico. If they don't give him the American transit visa, he wants them to transfer the sum and have a letter from the company sent to him. They won't let themselves be put off any longer by the officials of the State Department who make promises and never keep them. The French authorities granted them safe conduct passes taking the place of passports and exit visas. Furthermore their sojourn permits will expire soon.

Kriv.'s death is affecting him a great deal, because he has known him for so many years. The writer says he is hoping to leave with his son. Jeannine will come later with Laura.)

Dear Friends,

(Summary: He says he has no illusions about the officials of the State Department among whom there are probably a goodly number of obstinate reactionaries and some friends of the USSR who are discrete but do their duty. He agrees that a Russian political refugee has no particular right to an entry visa for the United States. He says he is very surprised by the exclusive treatment he has received and he does not see how they can justify it, knowing how many people are being admitted. He says that in his records in Washington they must have found something terrific which had been prepared for the occasion, as they did in Brussels and Paris. He is held there simply because of this visa and will soon be turned over to the enemy just at a time when the United States claims to be working in favor of the political refugees of Europe. He thinks that the treatment he is receiving from the State Department is simply scandalous. He says he is not the only one in the same situation. He is enclosing a copy of his letter of March 6. He hopes that they will soon have a decision from Washington or from Ciudad Trujillo.)

This is an article from "La Voie de Lénine" (Lénine's Way), No. 2, March 1939, Paris. The headings read "The Revolutionary Moral Philosophy" and "The 'methodes' of Leon Trotsky." The question discussed is: Why has the world revolutionary party (The Communist International) degenerated? Why has the country of the socialist revolution, the U.S.S.R., been overwhelmed by the totalitarian system? Certain professors of moral philosophy place the blame on Bolshevism, its moral philosophy, and its methods. Victor Serge is classed among these anti-Trotkyists. He feels that the cause of the degeneracy of the Bolshevik party is a sort of singular defeat in morals and method. He feels that the Bolshevism of Lenin and Trotsky should be revised in this respect.

Sunday, December 9, 1940. Dear Marc and Julian, the idea of making the voyage with Germaine and her daughter makes me smile. A telegram of Nov. 28, from my friends in New York told me that "President Cardenas has recommended your immigration visa visit the Mexican Consulate." I did not go to the Consulate until yesterday, Dec. 7, and they told me that they had not received any news. You will note that it would be impossible for me to stop in Portugal since they will only issue transit visas for 48 hours to people who are in possession of tickets for their embarkation.

In November 1936, I obtained, through a ministerial authorization from Mr. Yvon Delbos (which was granted on January 7, 1936) a visa for a six-month stay in France.

The Minister of the Interior, Marx Dormoy, having decided on January 23, 1937, to put aside the expulsion order against me issued in 1917, I obtained on February 25, 1937 a new French visa for six months. The same visas were granted to my wife and my son.

This authorization having expired in August, 1937, I requested a renewal, and the Director of the Territorial and Foreign Police in a letter dated November 9, 1937 assured Mrs. Magdaleine Pas that my situation was absolutely regular.

In a second letter of December 17, 1937, The Director of Police again called attention to the fact that my situation was absolutely regular.

At the prefecture I learned that instructions regarding the renewal of our identification cards had been given. The official in charge of these formalities told me:

"The letter from the minister seems to indicate that your visit is not limited in any manner, but the word renewal obliges me to renew your visa for six months....."

At the end of March, I addressed the Minister of the Interior, in sending to Mr. Gazeaux, new applications for renewal of permit to stay, for a longer period of time; I felt I ought to point out my position as a political refugee banished from the USSR, and that I was ready to precisely observe the rules laid down by the French in return for their hospitality.

These requests were also made on behalf of my wife, Lioubov Roussakov-Kibaltchiche and my son, Vladimir, 17 years old.

Our authorizations expired April 11. Our identification cards are still valid for two months.

This item contains information of general interest in regard to the Spanish Civil War and the formation of the Central Military Committee. "The Central Military Committee is made up of military representatives, workers, farmers, and petite bourgeoisie. The first committee was composed almost entirely of workers, participants of the C.N.T. (Confederation Nationale de Travail) and the P.O.U.M. (Workers Party For Marxist Unification) and in the course of several weeks the leftist republicans and others came in and the Committee became a political organization with representatives from all parties. So that factually, the power entirely and wholly belonged to this Central Committee. This Committee existed so that it could transfer itself to the building of the "generation" (?) and call itself the government. This is what it did. The C.N.T., the largest workers' organization, joined this government. The P.O.U.M. was compelled to join or disintegrate. Subsequently it would have been necessary for it to join, for there was no other way out or otherwise they would be regarded as unlawful. Inasmuch as the Anarchists did not support it there was no other way out". etc.

Personal letter to "Victor" from "Maurice", written from La Nouvelle on August 9, 1941. The writer, who has taken steps to obtain a visa for Victor's son, and has written to friends in America, and to Thorie (?) and Hovortone (?) for assistance in this matter, points out that these friends may find it difficult to understand why Victor writes to them on his own account, while he writes to them on the son's account. These friends may be led to think that the father and son are not on friendly terms or that the son is taking these steps without the father's knowledge. For this reason the writer urges Victor to make application for both himself and his son, since separate applications may give rise to unpleasant misunderstandings. He believes that these misunderstandings can be avoided if Victor, in his letters to friends in America will add Vlady's name to his own.

The writer mentions that the visa for Venezuela is possible, and in this connection says that he will write to Isabellita. He will also write to Hovortone and to Thorie, who is the director of the Journal of the Hispanic Confederation (?) in New York, and who is undoubtedly acquainted with Victor as an active member of the CNT (Confederation Nationale de Travail). It is not impossible, the writer concludes, that Thorie will be able to accomplish something for Victor.

This is an article by Erich Wollenberg, published in 1938 entitled: The Obliteration of the boundary between the C.P.U. and the Gestapo. The author mentions the assassination of Ignaz Reiss, the Polish revolutionary, near Lausanne on September 4, 1937. At first there was doubt in the minds of the people as to whether he had been killed by Gestapo agents or Stalin agents, but it was soon clear that Stalin had done it. Reiss was known to be an anti-Stalinist and his letter to Stalin in which he announced his break with the latter was his death warrant. The writer states that the death of Ignaz Reiss should be a lesson to them (the anti-Stalinists): thoughtlessness with regard to their own safety is a crime against the cause they are serving.

The author writes of the arrest made by the Czechoslovakian National Police of a man supposedly an agent of the Gestapo. The prisoner stated that he had been an agent of the C.P.U. until July, 1937, and then entered the service of the Gestapo. The C.P.U. organization of the Communist Party of Germany in Prague claimed, however, that this man was one of the most reliable members of the KPD (Communist Party of Germany). Meanwhile, however, they learned that he really had gone over to the Gestapo, but no official warning has ever gone out against him in the press of the KPD. It sounds to the author as though the man had been ordered by the KPD headquarters to enter the service of the Gestapo in order to cover up his GPU work. The author feels that this man has betrayed the working class and socialism.

The protection of the socialist movement and its supporters from the persecutions of the Gestapo includes the unmasking of the GPU as an anti-socialist ganster organization.

TRANSLATION FROM THE FRENCH

This is an article by Victor Serge, entitled "Power and Limitations of Marxism," published in the "Masses - A Socialist Review," No. 3, March 1939, Paris. Serge states that Russia is far from a true Marxist state. The fear of liberty which is really fear of the masses, is characteristic of nearly the entire development of the Russian revolution. The lesson to be drawn from this is that socialism is essentially democratic, that is, libertarian. It is clear in Russia today that without freedom of thought, speech, criticism, and initiative, socialized production cannot help but undergo one crisis after another. Liberty is as necessary to socialism, the spirit of liberty is as necessary to Marxism, as oxygen is to living beings. In Russia the dictatorship of the proletariat has become a dictatorship of officials and police over the proletariat; the working class is much worse off than it was under the old government, agriculture has been ruined by forced collectivisation. Marxism has been destroyed by an anti-socialist government. But Serge feels that a new working class will reconstitute itself in Russia on a considerably enlarged industrial basis.

TRANSLATION FROM THE FRENCH

This is a newspaper article by Kurt Landau entitled "Trotskyism and the Spanish Revolution." Trotsky publicly branded as traitors the leaders such as Andres Nin and Juan Andrade, who committed the serious error of separating themselves from him, as a great many other Marxists have done for the simple reason that the P.O.U.M. (Workers' Party of Marxist Unification) signed the electoral agreement of the Popular Front of February 16. It is the feeling of the Marxists that Trotsky broke definitively with the principles of the revolutionary morals preconceived by the labor movement. The general feeling expressed by the article is that the Trotskyists of Spain are adventurers who did not understand anything about the elementary principles of Marxism. Revolutionary Marxism has learned that only the strict union of the proletarian revolutionaries in the form of a party can build a force capable of carrying along the committees in the path of the revolution.

I see that I made an error in my preceding letters, it is with Mr. Varian Fry I have made contact (and not Frey as I wrote). He manages the American Aid Committee here at 60 Rue Grignan and is highly regarded by the intellectuals here. I await your news, I will like them in more detail so that I can keep in contact better. I am now in a frenzy of work and more worried than ever about the future.

Dear Friends,

The Mexican Consulate was closed during the New Year's holiday, I could not go there until yesterday in order to find out that my visa has not arrived.

* * * * *

I will summarize my last letters: With or without an American transit visa, I have decided to leave quickly, believing that I must not lose a day. I insisted that the same steps be taken for Laura in order that she might obtain the same Mexican visa, we are very alarmed that nothing has been done in that regard, although our friends have been very alert. In regard to the American transit visa, I don't know where I am as I can't plan anything until I have the Mexican visa, and I ignore the personnel and what they think of me, above all since the recent intrigues and the incident which I have already spoken to you about.

Very truly yours, I shake your hand.

Dear Friends,

I received your telegram yesterday announcing that the State Department had recommended my transit visa. I hope that will be granted, if the action at the Consulate will not be unfortunate.... Friday evening after having seen the Mexican Consul who had not received any word concerning me, I cabled you to inform you that the Mexican visas had not arrived and to ask you to do everything possible to get our friends in Mexico to act in regard to Laura's case.

* * * * *

To make a resume in one word: I must not lose a single day--- and the action for Laura should also be made as soon as possible.

Since I will soon leave on a long trip I will need my valise which is at Auberoche. I am enclosing a money order for 100 Francs for which I ask you to send it to me at the following address: Mrs. L. Sejourne.

Dear Julian,

We have received the translation of the book. I am happy about our similarity of views, as that will facilitate a great many things and will make us stronger; Though telegrams from New York and Mexico have told us that our visas have been sent, it has been two days now and the Mexican Consulate at Marseille has not received them as yet.

(Translator's note: The remainder of this letter contains a detailed recital of difficulties in getting the desired visa, etc., and personal data in regard to Laura Sejourne, for the Consulate.)

Dear Friends,

Since my letter of the 19th and my wire of the same day, I have taken many steps in regard to my transit visa and they have finally assured me that I will be able to obtain one....

If it should be impossible to obtain a transit visa for New York, I have been advised to go to Mexico as quickly as possible, from where it will perhaps be possible to go to the United States. That is what I am asking you to arrange for me. It seems that there is a regular service between Lisbon and Vera Cruz.

(Translation of material upside down at bottom of page)

Same day. I have just left the Mexican Consulate where nothing has been received yet. They have assured me that the number as well as the date must have been in error. I received your cable in the following form:

"Mexican Government sends a Marseille Consulate visas by cable 61787 November 12 stop."

The date is certainly in error, as it should read December, in referring to your former telegram. I am going to the main office to see if the error in transmission may be rectified....

Very truly yours,

Dear Friends,

.....I am beginning to be worried about these long waits, even though a friend who has seen the Mexican Ambassador at Vichy was assured that the Mexican government had acted favorably on my requests. It is still vague. I also know that as far as the Italian refugees are concerned Mexico has treated them very well.

Laura Sejourne, & Mr. Benedite,

La Fosseraie, Marseille

Dear Friends: I have at last received your letter of October 19, after your wire of the 29th. I have not yet received your letter of September 30. In regard to the money sent, I have received it all quickly, with the exception of 25 dollars sent in July, to my address in Dordogne, which has been misplaced and the postoffice is now checking on. The remittance of October 10 came in ten days. Thanks to some help which I got here we have been able to get along O. K. and for one week we even were able to live rather well, in a large country home, which had not been lived in for a long time which has been lent by a friend. I have invited Breton who is here with his wife and daughter. My son is also here, as well as Mrs. Sejourne. Please take note of our new address, lest the postman should continue to use the old one. I have written to you regularly on October 4, 7-8, 16, 21, 28. This calm will it last for me? I do not know a thing, except that the position of all of the refugees is very unstable. Just now I have had to answer a summons, and although I am perfectly in order as regards my papers, there are always apt to be small things which will disturb ones daily life. There is nothing else wrong. At home, we have a vast and beautiful countryside and the only troublesome thing is that of heat. We are surprised if we are able to eat every day, but somewhere we succeed in doing so. I am working a great deal on a novel, I am going to copy the first over on a typewriter, the novel is made up of five parts which may be considered separately. I have already lost so many manuscripts in Russia, that I confess that I have a certain hesitation in working here under almost identical circumstances. I hope to be able to send you the parts which are already prepared. Regarding the friends of Mr. Bohn, I have no news of them at present. In regard to Mr. Frey, he is a very good man, an admirable worker, and devoted to his task, and he does a great deal, he understands a great deal and he learns a great deal from his daily contacts with an unspeakable tragedy. Does it appear that the committee will consider recalling him as if his task were finished? That would be a great misfortune!

(Tr. note: The remainder of this letter is summarized since it is purely personal and badly written.)

I understand that certain obstacles have presented themselves in regard to my affairs in Washington and from where they come. On this point Mr. Bingham may perhaps be useful.

Mr. Victor Serge,
123 Rue Horace,
Marseille. (France)

Buenos Aires, October 22

My dear Victor:

Your letter was considerably late in arriving and didn't reach me until five days ago.

Regarding the word to friend De Cabo sent along with your letter, he responds with propositions of collaboration. Unhappily, I think that the conditions of regularity and the type of articles that the newspapers demands are impossible for you now. On my part I have gone to see the manager of a periodical which comes out every week, and this person is ready to take an article from you each week. You may choose the subjects. Unfortunately the price of each article will not be fabulous, around 250 Francs. You will address them to me as if they were personal letters. You will have to send them by air mail otherwise they will be too late.

Regarding the possibilities of obtaining a visa for entering Argentina, it is problematical. The doors here are becoming more and more closed against immigrants, and especially against those whose name is well known as is true in your case. We will, however, continue to work on this matter. Don't you think it would perhaps be easier to get a visa for North America? Also it seems that economic conditions would be better there.

I receive news regularly from Alfred and Margeurite, and from them I have learned that Katia and Olga and their children have left Paris. I wish so much to have news from Katia. I am surprised that she has not thought to write to me.

What a miserable and sordid thing existence has become. In this port of call, which is called South America, one feels that one will be devoured. The most extraordinary kind of rumors are circulating and the war haunts and poisons us.

I arrived here full of plans, having decided that I would write, to work seriously, to try to again become a normal being; but I found here such a cold indifference that my poor courage fell to zero, and I have been unable to make the least effort to conquer my difficulties.

I am not complaining; and why should I? I eat more or less well, every day, and the bombardments are far from here now, but I can do so little for the people who are in need at this moment, that I am overcome with shame and despair. I would like to have a great deal of money, I would do almost anything to get it, but I can hardly pay my rent.

Send me an article immediately. Choose your subject in such a way that you will not have difficulties with the censor. And if you know anything about Katia, tell me.

I have launched the idea of an aid committee for the friends who are in distress in Europe at this time. I do not belong to any organization myself, but some of the isolated friends here have promised to help, but they haven't done anything up to now.

Tell our friends that I will do everything possible to come to their aid, but that I am unable to do very much.

Cordially yours,

Here is my address:

Mrs. M. F. Etchebehere,

October 16, 1940. Dear Friends, I am beginning to be worried about your silence since your last letter was that of September 17. Many clippers have now arrived without bringing me anything. It is true that I have received your telegram of October 1st advising me to work through Lisbon, but it was already too late. You undoubtedly know that it is very difficult to obtain transit visas for Spain. I also know nothing about how things are going at the State Department, they have recently told me that things were under consideration. Although Julian has promised me the Mexican visas I haven't heard anything else from him. I would like to know if some important letters have not been misplaced somewhere. At present despite some clouds on the horizon, our position is becoming a little bit better and it seems that within a few days we will have a roof over our heads and a fairly decent place to stay. I have received 50 dollars which was cabled by Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, the day before yesterday. It seems evident that it will be necessary to look for a more radical solution and that the only one is Mexico or near you, since we are now in a personal situation which is absolutely untenable. I have written to you on the subject of my friend, Mrs. Sejourne, who sent you that letter. She has an excellent reputation in the cinema which will undoubtedly enable her to gain a living on the other side of the ocean. But regarding the letters you asked about from here, I have had no reply. I make this request of you: Please recommend her to the Em. Res. Com. as an intellectual, expert on films and try to find with the aid of the Com. the means to assure her a visa which will permit her to accompany me, or to follow me. My "personal plan" was to shift for myself a little and then to have her join me with my daughter; but now as I have already told you I do not wish to travel alone, and it seems to me from the point of view of work, we fight together better, above all if a favorable circumstance should present itself; Jean Renoir, who is a renowned film producer ("The Son of the Painter," "La Bete Humaine", "La Marseillaise"), who is coming to America and knows Mrs. Sejourne well, as she has worked with him, has offered to help her and to seek work for her. I am not acquainted with him, I only know that he is a man of great originality, a worthy artist, but very far removed from us. Mrs. Sejourne will ask him to take the necessary action which will have to be done through the Em. Res. Com. and to get in contact with Nancy. I hope that you will pardon us for counting on you with such a friendly simplicity. J. R. may perhaps be extremely useful in vital questions; but please remember that he is unknown to me—personally.

Tell us what we should be doing here---should we write for a quote? --- How is that done? --- My sons will send some designs for the exposition which is planned. I realize that we have been very awkward in our efforts up to this time: It is necessary to be more skillful in the struggle for a place in the boat. Anything new in regard to Jackson? Sherry Mangan has received a letter on that subject, to which I have already alluded when writing to you; that seems to me to be fantastic and untruthful. Goodbye and answer soon. From little information which I have received it would seem that developments have been blocked but that there is still a little chance of them being successful. Is that not true? If not---then push on in the direction of the South, I give you a hearty handshake, yours.

Dear Friends: I will take advantage of a chance to write this to you. When I received your wire advising me to go to Lisbon it was already too late, Portugal will not give any more transit visas to people returning from China. In addition, other difficulties would have rendered that solution more difficult (children, passport for my son). I imagine that by now you realize what great obstacles I am up against, probably exceptional ones, since through certain information which I now have I know that the Stalinist work is being done in the U. S. on a large scale by a goodly number of journalists, politicians, and Stalinist intellectuals have arrived there. They even have a certain amount of support in the administration and with doubt among certain elements of the bourgeoisie. Their action is and will be camouflaged; they will have to sustain certain hopes in regard to the attitude of the USSR in the coming developments of the war. They would do anything if they could get their personnel installed in the U. S. They will be able, during a certain period of time at least, close the door to me. All they will have to do will be to add a certain number of notes which they will make up to the files. While waiting here, the situation becomes more difficult and may even turn out to be tragic, therefore I advise and demand that you take action through Mexico (or somewhere else if that is to your liking; but there I am sure that I will have the good help of G.) in order to hasten the solution. G. has formally assured me that he will be able to obtain the visas, I am only afraid that he will be too sure as he often is. As soon as you have obtained a result wire me telling me the number of the cablegram sent from the Consulate. I think that it would be best to have a personal recommendation from the Mexican Consulate in order to dispense with many of the formalities here. With the Mexican visas I hope to be able to obtain a transit visa for New York, it seems that will be possible.

Elsa ought to be in Lisbon by now, or at least within fifteen minutes. From there she will write to Max H. Steps have been taken for her by the Mensheviks, but she does not expect a favorable result, as she is inclined to take a very dark view of things knowing the egoism of the group of men who have occupied themselves with assisting her. She is very tired of all of the small miseries of life which we could not escape. She would be able to revive and show proof of her intelligence if she could have contact with comrades who are less worn out, and then she would take courage.

The difficulty of departing is very great. I must leave with my son as soon as possible for a number of reasons which you may guess; the unfortunate thing is that he doesn't have a passport, neither the Mexicans nor the Americans will even issue him a transit visa. My daughter may be brought over a little bit later.

A question of general order. A great deal is being done to save the intellectuals and the leaders of the old parties, but the actions of the left or of the extreme left and in particular the militant workers and the intellectuals are unimportant or scattered. It is among them that we find our best friends, there that we shall find the best elements for the future. I think that we should rapidly create an aid organization which will be in charge of these elements, and will renew their relations with the various American republics, in order to see that the Unions will finance the immigration of these militant workers. Despite the agreements concluded between Mexico and France on this subject, the situation of the Spaniards is undescribable; neither work nor aid, neither possibilities of departure nor legal status. I demand that you inform people about the condition of need of certain men like Andrade and his wife (both ill.) Solano or Milins, at least should be able to keep them from starving to death. Wouldn't it be possible to obtain through the Spanish Aid Committees in Mexico funds from the American Aid Committees which are intended for a number of militants and intellectuals now taking refuge here? For the greater number it is evident that the aid should be furnished through the Mexican Red Cross, with government funds, since they are numerous; it will be necessary to take the desired steps for this action before winter. Tell all this to some of our special friends.

Eleanora Ber. perhaps will receive a manuscript in the hope that she will be able to publish it in a magazine when conditions become normal. This is not my manuscript. I have not even read it, the author seems to be a young man, intelligent, that is all that I am able to say. I would have sent some things to you myself if I had not been so busy.

Please indicate receipt of this letter by giving the date.
Friendly and fraternally yours.

Dear Friends,

As soon as I received your cable giving me the number of the telegram from Mexico giving notice about my visa, I went to the Mexican Consulate, but nothing had been received there. I cabled you the same day that it seemed impossible to obtain an American transit visa.

* * * * *

It will take about a month to arrange for the trip after the Mexican visa has been acquired. I want you to know that I will be glad to accept a transit visa for anywhere in the Antilles, if you are able to obtain one for me. I have also decided that I shall leave by myself since I think that I will be doing it in the interest of my dear ones. Your telegrams show what a fight you are putting up over there.... In reality the entire world is against us, but we should not be surprised. I have written on December 5, 8, and 14. The money which you sent to Laura on November 7 and by ? means has arrived. I shake hands with you heartily,

BESSARABIA AND DORROUDJA

What new phase of history is being enacted in the Balkans? Three lines of force of the great powers, Russia, Germany and Italy, are being converged there, this will affect the existance of the following nations: Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey. We wish today to examine one aspect of that problem, which is well known to us: that of the role of Russia in that part of the world.

M. Molotov, president of the Council of the Peoples' Commissars (after Rykov, shot) and Commissar of Foreign Affairs, after Litvinov, recalled recently, in a discourse before the Supreme Council, that the USSR maintained her claim over Bessarabia, but that she did not intend to resort to arms over that dispute. This section has been under Rumanian control for over twenty years. That is to say that Russia will not take the initiative, but will take advantage of any circumstance which may occur. There is no doubt of this fact. Bessarabia was detached from Russia by force during the civil war, in 1918; but she was never truly a part of Russia. In the approximately three million inhabitants, there were 47% Moldaves, 19% Ukrainians, and 1.8% Jews. However, Russia has never recognized the annexation of Bessarabia to Rumania and this disputed territory appears on all Russian maps as truly a part of the Ukraine. In 1924, in order to better fix this right, the Moscow government set up along the Dniester, on its own territory along the Rumanian frontier, a small Moldavian Soviet Republic, with Balta as the capital. This area is inhabited principally by "Jews, Ukrainians, and Russians," as stated by an official Soviet publication. The autonomous republic of Moldavia has only 600,000 people of which 30.1% are Moldavians and 43.5% are Ukrainians. It only exists as a symbolical claims for the Soviets.

An ally of Napoleon in 1807, Russia was under the Emperor Alexander I, she entered a war against Turkey and in the course of that conflict won Bessarabia in 1812. (A war with Sweden, also thanks to the alliance with Napoleon, gave her Finland; it is curious to recall, how these links of history maintain themselves from century to century.) The war in 1856, against France and Germany obliged Russia to abandon Bessarabia, a strip of territory along the Danube, including the small village of Ismail; but following a new war against Turkey, which resulted in the formation of a new Bulgaria, Russia again took Ismail. These facts are recalled since they are very significant for our immediate future.

An agricultural area, devoid of natural riches, not really Russian, Bessarabia is not of herself, for Russia, a sufficiently coveted territory to justify the risks of an international crisis or even a local war. In the South she touches Dobroudja, peopled principally by Bulgarians, annexed by Rumania in 1878, by the Treaty of San Stefano, and somewhat increased in 1919 by the Treaty of Neuilly, to the detriment of Bulgaria; and Dobroudja, silently claimed by Bulgaria, controls the mouth of the Danube, with the port of Ismail, which is well located in the interior. It is well known that Bulgaria is perhaps the best armed of any of the Balkan States, thanks to the aid given her by Russia and Germany, she is now the focus of Russian influence in the peninsula. A real community of customs, traditions, and of language has facilitated the strengthening of the links between the Bulgarian Empire, even under Boris III, who was so strong in his repression of any Communist movements; and the USSR under Stalin. At Sofia and Moscow the same view is held in regard to the mouth of the Danube, an essential position from the economic point of view on the Black Sea. Also when they speak of Bessarabia in Moscow, it is in reality of Dobroudja, at the Delta of the Danube, which they are thinking about.

The Soviet policy tends and will tend to make of Bulgaria the outpost in the direction of the Dardanelles and also toward Salonica. It should be stated that the Bulgarian Communist Party, forbidden by law, and literally decimated by thousands of executions during the insurrections of 1923-1924 and during the memorable "attempt on the Cathedral of Sofia", has been legal for some time. It presented itself successfully at the elections, and naturally approved the Hitler-Stalin pact. Bulgaria has two good ports on the Black Sea, Varna and Burgas; in the event of a war with Rumania, she will again take Constanza the most important port, which is in Dobroudja.

In all of these regions, the Russians have over their rivals and Quasi-Allies, the Germans, the historical, social, and geographical advantage. They are well aware of this. The USSR guards and rebuilds the political heritage of the Empire of the Czars, certainly not for religious, ethnical, or ideological reasons, but simply because it is a part of her economic strategy.

It is a fact that she has failed to do her part in regard to an active policy against Rumania? We doubt it very much. It should never be forgotten that there is internal weakness, the fear which she has of war, the circumspect attitude of the diplomacy of the colossus with feet of clay. The USSR will seek to stabilize the situation in the Balkans, extending her influence, and fortifying her position. If the III Reich acts, it will then become necessary for the USSR to act, and at the same time as Hitler. In that case, she will try to block the route to the Black Sea to the Germans, by making them move behind the mouth of the Danube, and openly making Bulgaria her fief.

Dear Friends: The enclosed letter was three days late due to a change in the schedule of mail for the clipper. Meanwhile, I received nothing except some correspondence from America. Mr. Frey, whom I just saw, told me that according to a cable which arrived about eight days ago, the request which I made for visas has finally been sent to the State Department. We will therefore plan to stay here for sometime, we now have a place to live which is quite satisfactory. I shall again write to Mexico in order to rush the details. I have had Mrs. Sejourne placed on the List of the Aid Committee here, do everything you can to see that the necessary steps are taken for her. Here is the information:

Sejourne, Laure, née Valentini, born at Aquila, Italy, October 24, 1911, French, film actress, assistant, author of a film about Spain, collaborates with Georges Neveux and Jean Renoir. Recommendations: Modigliani, André Breton, mine. I have learned that Breton is having difficulties at Washington, about visas, but that Mexico has invited him there to give lectures. He is here, we see him often.

I beg of you to send word quickly. Perhaps I shall wire you for verification (I hesitate to make so many expenditures.)

My dear friend, during the past few weeks, the situation has become more and more difficult and it has been over a month now since I have had any news from my friends across the Atlantic. The American visas are late. They say that my papers are in good order but I know that too much has happened there for my affairs to proceed rapidly and well. Thus it would be an immense advantage to have Mexican visas, while waiting. I have received the necessary documents to remain here. If you want to get in touch with me you may contact the Emergency Rescue Committee, 122 East 42nd St., New York, whose representative here is in charge of my affairs; I also have in New York other friends, but the ones I really need are aids or consuls—and certain others, who could be stimulated

I have asked you to wire me as soon as there is any news; to address me with a recommendation for the Mexican Consulate at Marseille; and finally to send me my book if it has appeared.

For Laurette, it is necessary for her to have a certificate from a Mexican resident in order to obtain a visa, this document must certify that she will be of good conduct in Mexico. It must be written in French and legalized by the French Consulate. That is the only formality in order to leave here.

One is annoyed by these preoccupations, these stupidities, these formalities. I am working nevertheless and I am burning to do more work. I am expecting a word from you, immediately, Greetings.

Dear Friends: The clippers last week did not bring me any news from you or any clarification of your telegram which advised me to contact Lisbon. It appears that I have waited too long and the difficulties of obtaining a Portuguese visa with a Chinese visa are insurmountable. Attached is a copy of the letter which I sent to you on the 4th. Meanwhile I have learned through the newspapers and otherwise that the people who would use every means to oppose my entry into the United States have arrived in your country in great number and are developing a great activity. I think that you will encounter serious difficulties. Pardon me for repeating: the solution ought to be found in Mexico as soon as possible. After the success of the steps, please wire me, giving the number and the date of the decision cabled to the Consulate; if possible assure me of a recommendation for the Mexican Consulate at Marseille. I will also try to obtain a transit visa for New York. I have no news from Mr. Bohn or anything about him.

There is no improvement here, the problems of food and lodging are such that the approach of winter makes one worry. And they are not the only problems. The only thing I am doing at present is working on a novel, the difficulty of doing anything else until the present time has been enormous. A sympathetic youth will probably send a literary essay one of these days to our friends in New York; I know neither his ideas nor his capacities, the only thing I can tell you about him is this: he is sympathetic and not stupid. Very truly yours,

Writer (novelist, historian)

Expatriate, Russian origin, and his children:

KIBALCHICHE, Vladimir, born June 15, 1920 in Petrograd, artist-painter.

KIBALCHICHE, Jeannine, born in Petrograd February 28, 1935

Auberoche, January 5, 1941

Dear Mr. Victor Serge:

I have received your letter as well as your money order for 100 Francs to pay for sending your valise.

I can't tell you whether there is any snow at Marseille or not, but I can assure you that there is at Auberoche, so much in fact that it is very difficult to get out.

However, as soon as the snow has melted I will take your valise to Montignac station.

In regard to papa, he wrote that he would come here for the New Year; but later he wrote that he could not get a passport.

I hope that he will be able to come later.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Henri Piteaud.
